STANDARD CONDITIONS OF SALE - Export (hereinafter referred to as The Conditions)

The Conditions shall apply to all Contracts of Sale concluded between Columbus and its export sales customers.

1. DEFINITIONS

For the purposes of this document, the words and phrases set out below shall have the particular meanings detailed below:

- The Customer means the customer who is designated as such on the Columbus Order Acceptance.
- Material means the items of stainless steel detailed on the Columbus Order Acceptance.
- Columbus means Columbus Stainless (Pty) Ltd or its assigns or successors in title.
- Order Acceptance means the document entitled “Order Acceptance” which forms part of the Contract of sale between the Customer and Columbus and which confirms the acceptance of every order and which details, inter alia, material ordered by the Customer and accepted by Columbus, the price per ton, any special instructions that may be applicable and the delivery date.
- Delivery Date means the period during which Columbus undertakes to deliver the material in accordance with the relevant Incoterm governing the contract of sale and, if applicable, deliver the shipping documents.
- Test Certificate means the certificate provided by Columbus certifying that material has been produced in accordance with the specification(s) set out in the order acceptance.
- Shipping Documents means the original commercial invoice, bill of lading and any other documents that may be applicable to each individual shipment.
- Incoterm means the set of international rules for the interpretation of trade terms published by the International Chamber of Commerce and shall, unless the contrary is stated, be in accordance with the 2010 version.

2. PURCHASE AND SALE

2.1 Columbus hereby sells and the Customer hereby purchases material, subject to the Conditions, which Columbus may amend from time to time.

2.2 The terms of the Contract of Sale between Columbus and the Customer appear in the Order Acceptance, Commercial Invoice and the Conditions. If material is sold by Columbus to the Customer in terms of a separate written agreement, the Conditions shall apply to that agreement. If there is a conflict between the Conditions and that agreement, the provisions of the Conditions shall prevail.

2.3 If there is any conflict between the terms contained in the Order Acceptance or Commercial Invoice and the Conditions, the terms contained in the Conditions shall prevail.

2.4 The Conditions shall prevail over any conditions of purchase of the Customer, unless the General Manager: Commercial at Columbus has agreed, in writing, to accept the Customer’s conditions of purchase, in which event the Conditions will apply to the extent that they do not conflict with the Customer’s conditions of purchase.

3. ORDER ENTRY PROCEDURE

3.1 Columbus shall indicate prices, volume availability and delivery dates to the Customer either by fax or e-mail. The Customer shall place his orders similarly by fax or e-mail.

3.2 If an order is received after the close of order entry, or at a time when the mill has already been fully loaded, then the delivery date relating to that order may either be postponed to the next available production month, or rejected entirely, at the discretion of Columbus.

3.3 Columbus may provisionally confirm the receipt of all new orders, by fax or e-mail, whilst the order is being processed, but the final acceptance thereof will only occur once Columbus has issued an Order Acceptance and will always be subject to the Conditions.

3.4.1 The customer is required to sign and return a copy of the Order Acceptance to Columbus. The signatory hereby warrants that he is authorised to act on behalf of the Customer, that he has read the Conditions and that, on behalf of the Customer, he accepts that the Conditions will apply to the Contract of Sale between the Customer and Columbus.

3.4.2 In the event that the Customer does not sign and return a copy of the Order Acceptance to Columbus within 15 (fifteen) working days from the date of sending thereof by Columbus, the Customer shall be deemed to have accepted the Order Acceptance and the conditions, which conditions shall apply to the contract of sale between the Customer and Columbus.

3.5 Once the Order Acceptance has been signed by the Customer, or once 15 (fifteen) working days referred to in clause 3.4.2 above have passed, the order is confirmed and it may not thereafter be cancelled by the Customer, in whole or in part, nor may it be varied in any manner whatsoever, unless such cancellation or variation is agreed, in writing, by the parties.

3.6 Orders accepted by Columbus are subject to a delivery tolerance of plus or minus 10% of the mass ordered. The Customer is liable to pay for the mass that is actually received, provided that it is within this delivery tolerance.

3.7 The Customer must report any errors that may appear on the Order Acceptance in writing within 15 (fifteen) working days from the date of receipt thereof, failing which he shall be deemed to have accepted the Order Acceptance as being correct. Thereafter, the Order Acceptance shall constitute irrefutable proof of the details of the order to which it relates. It is therefore essential that the Order Acceptance document should be carefully checked.

4. PRICES AND PAYMENT

4.1 The prices shall be determined by negotiation between the parties taking into account the prevailing market conditions, and, once accepted by the Customer, shall be confirmed in the Order Acceptance.
4.2 The Customer shall make payment of the full amount due to Columbus in accordance with the payment terms set out in the Commercial Invoice and on the due date that is specified therein.

4.3 For purposes of invoicing, the actual mass shall apply unless a billing mass has been agreed between the parties and confirmed in the Order Acceptance.

5. RISK AND OWNERSHIP

5.1 Risk in and to the material shall pass to the Customer in accordance with the Incoterm reflected on the Commercial Invoice.

5.2 Ownership of the material will vest in Columbus until the Customer has effected full payment of the purchase price as required in the payment terms referred to on the Commercial Invoice.

5.3 The obligation to insure the material will depend upon the Incoterm chosen by the parties as reflected on the Commercial Invoice.

5.4 The point of delivery of the material from Columbus to the Customer will depend upon the Incoterm chosen by the parties as reflected on the Commercial Invoice.

6. WARRANTY

6.1 Columbus warrants that the material will conform to the specifications detailed in the Test Certificate.

6.2.1 In the event that any claim is made by the Customer that the material is defective in terms of this warranty, Columbus shall entirely without prejudice to any other rights it may have, replace the material or such portion thereof as may have been affected, or refund the purchase price or such portion thereof as is applicable to the defective material, against the return of the affected material or its scrap value.

6.2.2 If the material is defective but none-the-less usable in a less demanding application, the Customer and Columbus may agree upon an acceptable discount rather than replacing or scrapping the material. Such a discount will be negotiated in good faith between the parties having regard to prevailing market circumstances.

6.3 Columbus shall not under any circumstances whatsoever or howsoever arising, be liable for any direct or consequential loss or damage.

6.4 This warranty contains the entire basis for liability on the part of Columbus in respect of the condition of the material. Save for this warranty, Columbus makes no other warranties, express or implied, by operation of law or otherwise. In particular, but without limiting the generality thereof, Columbus makes no warranty that the material is fit for any particular purpose of the Customer.

7. FORCE MAJEURE

7.1 Except for the obligation to pay the full purchase price in respect of any material that may already have been shipped and invoiced or delivered, neither party shall be liable to the other for any failure to perform any of its obligations, in whole or in part, in the event of, and to the extent that such failure is caused by, force majeure.

7.2 Force majeure shall, without in any way restricting its ordinary meaning, include Act of God, war, civil commotion, strikes, lockouts, revolutions, fires, explosions, floods, political disturbances, acts of any Government or local authority, breakdowns of plant equipment, shortages of raw materials, storms or any matters that are beyond control of either or both of the parties.

7.3 During the currency of a force majeure the respective parties’ obligations may be suspended as soon as the party who is unable to perform his obligations as a result thereof, has given the other party notice, in writing, informing him of the nature and the expected duration of the force majeure.

7.4 In the event that a force majeure lasts for a period of more than 30 days, the parties may agree, or one or other of them may elect to cancel the outstanding obligations, upon written notice.

8. SUSPENSION AND CANCELLATION

8.1 If any sums are due, owing and payable by the Customer to Columbus, in accordance with the payment terms reflected on the respective Invoice, Columbus shall be entitled, but not obliged, to suspend the delivery of any other material that has been ordered by the Customer, and accepted by Columbus, without Columbus incurring any liability to the Customer for damages or losses of any kind whatsoever.

8.2 Interest shall accrue on outstanding amounts at a rate of 2% per annum above LIBOR (i.e. London Interbank rate) from the due date for payment to the actual date of payment.

8.3 If the Customer fails to make payment of any sums due, owing and payable on due date, and further fails to rectify such default within 7 (seven) days of date of default, or if any execution is levied upon the property or assets of the Customer, or if the Customer passes a resolution for its winding up (otherwise than solely for the purpose of amalgamation or reconstruction), or if any provisional or final order of liquidation or for judicial management is granted against it, then and in any such case Columbus may by written notice to the Customer:

8.3.1 cancel the Contract of Sale with the Customer and claim the material back, or damages; and

8.3.2 cancel any other orders by the customer which may already have been accepted by Columbus.

In such an event, the Customer agrees and binds itself to forthwith return, at its expense and risk, any material which has been delivered by Columbus and for which payment has not been made.

9. NOTICE OF INSURANCE CLAIMS

In the event that any claim arises in respect of damage to material forming the subject matter of a contract of sale between Columbus and the Customer, the Customer shall give written notice to Columbus within 24 hours of the Customer becoming aware of the incident giving rise to the claim or when the Customer ought reasonably to have become aware of the claim.

10. DOMICILIUM

The parties choose their respective addresses on the Commercial Invoice as their respective domicilia citandi et executandi for the purposes of any notice in terms of the Conditions.
11. WAIVER
Any indulgence which may be granted by Columbus to the Customer, in respect of any of the Customer's obligations, shall not be deemed to be a waiver or a novation of any such obligations and shall not prejudice the right of Columbus. Any waiver, change, amendment or discharge of a term contained in the conditions, or of any order that has been accepted by Columbus, shall not bind either party unless it has been made in writing and signed by an authorised representative of each party.

12. CESSION OF RIGHTS
The Customer shall not cede, assign, or sub-contract any of its obligations in terms of these Conditions to any other party without the prior written consent of Columbus.

13. JURISDICTION
The Contract of Sale between the Customer and Columbus, including the Conditions, shall be governed by the laws of the Republic of South Africa and any dispute arising out of or concerning any order or Contract of Sale shall be resolved in accordance with the laws of the Republic of South Africa, in a South African Court having jurisdiction.